Hello Eric,

So for my project I have decided to make my own web design website. On this site I show off a little of what I can do.I live in Ventura CA, so I went with a beach theme to represent where I live. The home page has a video that I made at home using the code I have learned in class. I have also done the barchart, interactive map, canvas, and photo gallery for this project. All the images on this website come from my personal collection on facebook, except for the images of the cities on the interactive map section. Those images came from the videos we watched on how to build this map. How ever, I can't seem to figure out how get the city images to show up on my page. To navigate on this website simply click on the buttons that have been labeled for each section.Enjoy!!!
